THE design of this little book is to give a scriptural illustration and defence of the daily service of the Protestant Episcopal Church. The plan is simple, and will be at once seen upon inspection. The Liturgy is given, sentence by sentence, in one column, and side by side with it, in another, passages of Holy Scripture.

Some of these scripture passages are introduced to vindicate the language of the Liturgy, by showing how closely it adheres to that of revelation—others to illustrate its meaning—others to prove its doctrines—others to enforce its pious sentiments—and others to exhibit the promises, upon which its supplications are grounded.

The Liturgy is often spoken of as scriptural, and the palpable method, which is here adopted, to exhibit its scriptural character, will show it to be as deserving of that praise, as its warmest eulogists have dared to aver. The language and the sentiments of the word of God must have been perfectly familiar to its authors. In preparing the prayers and offices of the Church, they have evidently drawn upon ample stores of biblical knowledge, which had been laid up in their minds, and wrought by devout meditation, into the various uses of prayer, and praise, and instruction. They always give a just preference to the language of scripture, but they show evidently, that in their study of God's word, they have not profited, to use the language of the Homilies, merely by becoming "ready in turning of the book, or in saying of it without the book," but by being "turned into it." The word of God is the great mine, from which the Liturgy has been derived, and much of the ore has been used almost in its native state. Masses, nearly untouched by human art, have been piled up in constructing the services of the sanctuary, like the stones of the altar, upon which no tool was to be lifted up. Ex. 20: 26.

It is sometimes said—and there are a thousand such remarks, which would not obtain currency, if men were as wary of false representations, as of false coin, and had as much conscience in uttering spurious opinions, as spurious bank notes,—that the Liturgy is tinctured with Romanism. Let it be carefully examined, and what passage can be found in it, for which the Bible does not contain a voucher. A portion of it is here presented, with the vouchers conveniently arranged for the comparison, and the rest, which was conceived and executed in the same spirit, and by the same minds, may be sustained in the same way. Some of our offices we have indeed derived from ancient times, through the Romish Church; but what then? It is possible for water to flow through a leaden pipe, without contracting any of its poison. The Greek and Romish Churches are in the line between us and the primitive times, and whatever has come to us from those times, has come through them; and what hinders, that that, which they have not corrupted, should retain its original purity and value? No protestant refuses to nourish his devotional feelings by the study of Fenelon or á Kempis, although they were both faithful sons of the Papal Church. Why then should it be thought that our service is but imperfectly reformed, because the Prayer Book, and a Roman missal may happen to have borrowed in some instances, the same prayer from an ancient Liturgy?—"To the law and to the testimony." If it be the characteristic principle of protestantism to make the Bible the only standard of religious truth, and to derive its faith and its worship from this source, then may our church challenge to itself the merit of being as thoroughly protestant as any on earth. But if the rule be, to recede as far as possible from the religion of Rome, we readily yield the precedence to those, who have not yet done with reforming, and never will, till, having swept away all those fundamental doctrines, which Rome holds in common with evangelical protestants, and every thing, which is peculiar in Christianity, they reform the gospel of the Son of God into simple deism.

A scriptural illustration of the Liturgy then, may serve to repel the false accusations of those, who do not love it; may it not also serve to render the use of it more profitable to those, who do? No mode of studying the Bible is so fruitful, as that of comparing Scripture with Scripture, and no mode of illustrating our eminently scriptural Liturgy, for the purpose of practical improvement, can be better than by Scripture texts. No words are so rich as those, "which the Holy Ghost teacheth." No proof of Christian doctrine can be so satisfactory, as the declaration of God;—faith can rest securely nowhere, but on his promises;—and in no way can the conditions of acceptance with him, and the limitations of his promises, be so well secured from misapprehension or cavil, as by appealing directly to the charter which contains them. "All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works," and it has been the effort of the author of this little work, to make the Scriptures, which he has selected, serve appropriately all these valuable ends.

The value of a liturgy, in maintaining steadfastness and purity of doctrine, has been often spoken of, and with perfect justice. "Wo to the church," said an eminent servant of God,* "which has not an evangelical liturgy." If the entire direction and preparation of the devotions of the sanctuary be left to the minister, they must, in a great measure, take their shape from the predominant feelings and mental habits of the man, the peculiarities of the sect to which he belongs, and the state of theological controversy in the times, in which he lives, and if they be strictly extemporaneous, they will have this defect in an eminent degree. This is not conjecture. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." To say nothing of faults, which spring from the peculiarities of the individual, how often are prayers heard, the drift of which seems to be determined by some new thought, or old one newly exhumed, where-with the talent of some aspirant for distinction has contrived to agitate the religious world, or from some new view, which has suddenly burst into the mind of the individual, and is at least as likely after examination, to prove false as true. How often is extemporaneous prayer cast in the mould of some favorite leader in theological controversy. How often is Coleridge prayed, how often Taylor, how often Edwards, how often some talented new-measure-man. Extemporaneous prayer must often prove an auxiliary to error, for the mind, which has conceived a heresy, will be as likely to utter it in prayer, as in a sermon. A Pelagian or Antinomian tinge in the heart and understanding will communicate itself to the utterance of the heart in prayer. "Quaecunque est cor hominis," says Erasmus,* "talis est oratio. Qui cor habet terrenum, terrena loquitur; qui cor habet carneum, carnalia loquitur; qui diabolum habet in corde, diabolum loquitur, et eum aliis afflat."—There is good reason to believe, that heretical or enthusiastic opinions may be more effectually propagated, by men of ordinary powers, in prayer, than in sermons, and indeed, that they are, as matter of fact, more generally prayed than preached into repute.

* Ecclesiastes, Lib. I.

The mind of the hearer is subdued by an appearance of high devotional fervor,—he cannot coolly sit in judgment, when carried, as in prayer, directly into the presence of the Judge of all, and he therefore receives, with imperfect discrimination, all that comes, the piety and the fanaticism, the truth and the heresy. It cannot be told how much we owe to our scriptural and evangelical Liturgy,—which is the same, whosoever reads it, and in every age,—in keeping us right, or bringing us back when we have departed from the simple truth in Jesus Christ. It defends us from the errors, which unsound teachers might propagate in their prayers, and it refutes the heresies of their sermons. The experience of the Christian world has demonstrated, again and again, that creeds can do little in preserving religious truth. But when the truths of religion are interwoven with our offices of devotion, and our creed is contained in our prayers, and they are fixed, we are subjected to an influence, which, though gentle, is, through the blessing of God, powerful in its influence, to draw us into the right way. The teachings of the Liturgy come in a favorable time, and gently form the mind, softened by reverence of the divine presence, into all the lineaments of heavenly truth.

It is not the purpose of the author to make, in this place, a defence of the Liturgy, but to show, by the view here given, the necessity of a just and scriptural interpretation of it, and to vindicate the design of his little work. Of its execution, others must judge. Should it meet with favor, and in the judgment of others promise to be useful, he will attempt the illustration of other parts of the prayer book, in a similar way.

THE ORDER FOR DAILY

MORNING AND EVENING PRAYER.

¶ The Minister shall begin the Morning [and Evening] prayer, by reading one or more of the following sentences of Scripture.*

THE Lord is in his holy temple; let all the earth keep silence before him. Hab. 2:20.

From the rising of the sun even unto the going down of the same my name shall be great among the Gentiles; and in every place incense shall be offered unto my name and a pure offering; for my name shall be great among the heathen, saith the Lord of hosts. Mal. 1:11.

Let the words of my mouth, and the meditations of my heart, be always acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my Strength and my Redeemer. Ps. 19:14.

ALMIGHTY LORD OF LORDS, AND KING OF KINGS, give me a deep sense of thy presence, and help me to worship thee with reverence and godly fear. Let every vain imagination and every worldly thought be silenced, that I may serve thee without distraction, and mercifully assist me to offer to thee the incense of a pure heart, and to magnify thy name, with my lips in the praises of thy house, and at all times by obedience to thy commands. Grant this, I beseech thee, through Jesus Christ, our Lord.†

ALMIGHTY GOD, the preparation of the heart, and the answer of the tongue are from thee. Let, I beseech thee, the meditations of my heart and the words of my mouth, be acceptable in thy sight, through Jesus Christ, my Strength and my Redeemer.

* See Note A, at the end of the volume, on the Sentences and Preparation for Worship.

† The sentences are here turned into prayers, for the private use of worshippers upon their entrance into church. See Note A, just referred to.

When the wicked man turneth away from his wickedness, that he hath committed, and doeth that which is lawful and right, he shall save his soul alive. Ezek. 18:27.

I acknowledge my transgressions; and my sin is ever before me. Ps. 51:3.

Hide thy face from my sins; and blot out all mine iniquities. Ps. 51:9.

The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise. Ps. 51:17.

Rend your heart and not your garment, and turn unto the Lord your God; for he is gracious and merciful, slow to anger and of great kindness, and repenteth him of the evil. Joel 2:13.

MOST GRACIOUS GOD, give me grace to turn from all the wickedness which I have committed by thought, word and deed, against thy divine Majesty, and henceforth to walk in the ways of thy laws and in the works of thy commandments. Here in the worship of thy house, I beseech thee to meet me with supplies of spiritual strength, and to quicken me to newness of life, through him, who is the resurrection and the life, thy Son, Jesus Christ, our Lord.

ALMIGHTY GOD, I do not come to thy house trusting for acceptance before thee, in my own righteousness, but in thy manifold and great mercies. I acknowledge my transgressions, and my sin is ever before me. Hide thy face from my sins, I beseech thee, and blot out all mine iniquities. Lift up thy countenance upon me, and send me help from thy sanctuary, through him who is the propitiation for the sins of all men, thy Son, Jesus Christ, our Lord.

O GOD, and merciful Father, who despisest not the sighings of a contrite heart, mercifully assist me in the offerings which I now make unto thee. Create and make in me a new and contrite heart, that worthily lamenting my sins, and acknowledging my wretchedness, I may obtain of thee, who art gracious and merciful, slow to anger and of great kindness, perfect remission and forgiveness, through my only Mediator and Advocate, Jesus Christ, our Lord.

To the Lord our God belong mercies and forgivenesses, though we have rebelled against him; neither have we obeyed the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in his laws, which he set before us. Dan. 9:9, 10.

O Lord, correct me, but with judgment; not in thine anger, lest thou bring me to nothing. Jer. 10:24. Ps. 6:1.

Repent ye, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand. St. Matt. 3:2.

I will arise and go to my Father, and will say unto him: Father, I have sinned against heaven and before thee, and am no more worthy to be called thy son. St. Luke 15:18, 19.

Enter not into judgment with thy servant, O Lord, for in thy sight shall no man living be justified. Ps. 143:2.

MOST GRACIOUS GOD and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, blessed be thy name, that, although I have rebelled against thee, and have not obeyed thy voice to walk in the laws, which thou hast set before me, I may yet venture to draw near to thee, for to thee belong mercies and forgivenesses. I beseech thee, correct me with judgment; not in thine anger, lest thou bring me to nothing. Create in me a clean heart, and here in this holy temple, let me find the joy of thy salvation, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

ALMIGHTY GOD, give me that repentance which is unto life. Turn me and I shall be turned; and prepare me by the life-giving influences of thy Holy Spirit to serve thee truly in thy holy Church here on earth, and hereafter among the redeemed in heaven, through our Lord Jesus Christ, to whom be glory forever.

MOST MERCIFUL GOD and Father, I have sinned against thee, and am no more worthy to be called thy son. But of thy great mercy admit me, I beseech thee, to a humble place in thy house, and feed me with the bread which came down from heaven, that I may eat thereof and not die. Mercifully hear me, for Christ's sake.

O LORD, enter not into judgment with thy servant, for in thy sight shall no man living be justified. I confess my sins, and I beseech thee, who art faithful and just to forgive the sins of such as confess

If we say, that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us; but if we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. 1 John 1:8, 9.

and forsake them, to forgive my sins and to cleanse me from all unrighteousness. Hear me, gracious God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ; create in me a clean heart and make me an acceptable worshipper in thy holy temple, through him, who died for us and rose again, thy Son, our Saviour, Jesus Christ.

Ps. 51:3. I acknowledge my transgression and my sin is ever before me.

Ps. 62:8. Trust in him at all times ye people; pour out your heart before him.

Ezra 10:11. Now therefore make confession unto the Lord^r God of your fathers.

Neh. 9:2. And the seed of Israel separated themselves from all strangers, and stood and confessed their sins, and the iniquities of their fathers.

Lev. 16:21. And Aaron shall lay both his hands upon the head of the live goat, and confess over him all the iniquities of the children of Israel, and all their transgressions in all their sins.†

* Here are set forth very distinctly the principal parts of public worship, confession, thanksgiving, praise, hearing God's word, and supplication. The texts collected upon the passage now before us, exhibit confession made at public worship.

† The sin-offerings and trespass-offerings of the Jews implied, and indeed were accompanied, with confession, expressed in these words: "I have sinned, I have done iniquity, I have trespassed, I have done thus and thus, and do return by repentance before thee, and with this I make atonement."—Horne's Introd. II. 284.

[See also the confessions contained in the Psalms, the singing or reciting of which, has, in every age, made a part of the public worship of the church. See particularly the penitential Psalms, 6 : 32 : 38 : 51 : 102 : 130 : 143.]

1 Thess. 5 : 27. I charge you by the Lord, that this epistle be read unto all the holy brethren. [See also, Col. 4 : 16, and Acts 13 : 15.]

* The reading of the word of God, constitutes a very considerable portion of the public worship of our church. If it is the sword of the Spirit, (Eph. 6 : 17.) do we read it too much? "There is nothing, (says the excellent Homily, on the reading of Holy Scripture,) that more maintaineth godliness of mind, and driveth away ungodliness, than doth the continual reading or hearing of God's word, if it be joined with a godly mind, and a good affection to know and follow God's will.

¶ A general Confession, to be said by the whole Congregation after the Minister, all kneeling.†

and most merciful

Gen. 17:1. I am the Almighty.

Ex. 34:6. The Lord God, merciful and gracious, long-suffering, and abundant in goodness and truth, keeping mercy for thousands, forgiving iniquity, transgression and sin.

Father ;

Rom. 8:15. For ye have not received the spirit of bondage, again to fear ; but ye have received the spirit of adoption, whereby we cry Abba ! Father !

* Humble, but not inaudible.

† Ps. 95:6. O come, let us worship and bow down ; and kneel before the Lord our Maker. Acts 21:5. And we kneeled down on the shore and prayed.

We have erred

and strayed from thy ways like lost sheep.

We have followed too much the devices and desires of our own hearts.

We have offended against thy holy laws.

We have left undone those things which we ought to have done ;

1 Sam. 26 : 21. I have erred exceedingly.

Is. 53 : 6. All we like sheep have gone astray ; we have turned every one to his own way.

1 Pet. 2 : 25. For ye were as sheep going astray ; but are now returned unto the Shepherd and Bishop of your souls.

Prov. 19 : 21. There are many devices in a man's heart, but the counsel of the Lord shall stand.

Jer. 18 : 12. And they said, there is no hope ; but we will walk after our own devices, and we will every one do the imagination of his evil heart.

Eph. 2 : 3. Fulfilling the desires of the flesh and of the mind.

James 3 : 2. For in many things we offend all.

Rom. 7 : 12. Wherefore the law is holy, and the commandment holy, just and good.

James 2 : 10. Whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all.

Matt. 23 : 23. These things ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone.

Matt. 25 : 42. I was an hungered, and ye gave me no meat ; I was thirsty, and ye gave me no drink ; I was a stranger, and ye took me not in ; naked, and ye clothed me not ; sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not.*

* Most men, when told that they are sinners, are inclined to ask what they have done, forgetting the guilt of not doing. A thousand causes which partake not at all of the nature of holiness, may keep us from gross sin, while nothing but the love of God can keep us active in the performance of Christian duties. Hence, if a man would know how he stands with God, let him consider what he has left undone. We see in this passage from Matt. 25, that the condemnation of those upon the left hand of the Judge, proceeded upon their sins of omission.

Matt. 22:21. Render to God the things that are God's.*

Matt. 22:37. Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind.

1 John 5:3. This is the love of God, that we keep his commandments.

Acts 5:29. We ought to obey God rather than man.

Ps. 119:11. Thy word have I hid in my heart that I might not sin against thee.

Exod. 20:3. Thou shalt have no other gods before me.

Matt. 10:37. He that loveth father or mother more than me, is not worthy of me.

Col. 3:5. Covetousness, which is idolatry.

Ex. 20:8. Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.

Is. 58:13. If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on my holy day; and call the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord, honorable; and shalt honor him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words; then shalt thou delight thyself in the Lord, &c.

Ex. 20:12. Honor thy father and thy mother.

Rom. 12:12. Patient in tribulation.

1 Thess. 5:17. Pray without ceasing.

* In the opinion of many, it is enough to "render to Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's." They think much of their civil and social duties, nothing of piety to God.

And we have done those things which we ought not to have done ;

Matt. 23 : 29. Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.

1 John 3 : 17. Whoso hath this world's goods, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth his bowels of compassion from him ; how dwelleth the love of God in him.*

Matt. 5 : 44. Love your enemies.

Mark 11 : 25. Forgive, if ye have ought against any, that your Father also, which is in heaven, may forgive you your trespasses.

1 Cor. 13 : 4. Charity suffereth long and is kind.

Rom. 12 : 10. In honor preferring one another.

James 3 : 10. My brethren, these things ought not so to be.

Ex. 20 : 7. Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.

Ex. 6 : 13. Thou shalt not kill.

Matt. 5 : 21, 22. Ye have heard that it hath been said by them of old time, Thou shalt not kill ; but I say unto you, whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause, shall be in danger of the judgment.

1 John 3 : 17. Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer.

Ex. 20 : 14. Thou shalt not commit adultery.

Matt. 5 : 28. I say unto you, whosoever looketh on a woman to lust after her, hath committed adultery with her already in his heart.

Ex. 20 : 15. Thou shalt not steal.

1 Thess. 4 : 6. Let no man go beyond and defraud his brother.

¶ The Declaration of Absolution, or Remission of Sins ; to be made by the Priest alone, standing, the People still kneeling.

Almighty God, the Father of our Lord
Jesus Christ,
who desireth not the death of a sinner, but rather that he turn from his wickedness and live, hath given power and commandment to his ministers, to declare and pronounce to his people,

¶ Then the Minister shall kneel, and say the Lord's Prayer; the People still kneeling and repeating it with him, both here and wheresoever else it is used in Divine Service.

Our Father who art in heaven;

2 Cor. 6:17, 18. I will receive you, and will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty.

"In whom we live and move and have our being; grant that I and all Christians may live worthy of this glorious relation, and 'that we may not sin, knowing that we are accounted thine.'

"We are thine by adoption; O make us thine by the choice of our will."*

Hallowed be thy name;

Lev. 10:3. I will be sanctified in them that come nigh me.

"O God, whose name is great, wonderful, and holy, grant that I and all thy children may glorify thee, not only with our lips, but in our lives; that others, seeing our good works, may glorify our Father, which is in heaven."

* This paraphrase of the Lord's prayer is from bishop Wilson's Sacra Privata.

Thy kingdom come ;

Rev. 11 : 15. The kingdoms of this world have become the kingdoms of our Lord and of his Christ.

Luke 17 : 21. The kingdom of God is within you.

Rom. 14 : 17. For the kingdom of God is not meat and drink, but righteousness and joy and peace in the Holy Ghost.

“ May the kingdoms of the world become the kingdoms of our Lord and of his Christ. And may all, that own thee for their king, become thy faithful subjects, and obey thy laws. Dethrone, O God, and destroy Satan and his kingdom ; and enlarge the kingdom of thy grace.”

Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven ;

Ps. 40 : 8. I delight to do thy will, O my God ; yea, thy law is within my heart.

Ps. 103 : 20. Bless the Lord, ye his angels, that excel in strength, that do his commandments, hearkening unto the voice of his word.

“ We adore thy goodness, O God, in making thy will known to us in this holy word. May this thy word be the rule of our will, of our desires, of our lives and actions. May we ever sacrifice our will to thine ; be pleased with all thy choices for ourselves and others, and adore thy providence in the government of the world.”

Give us this day our daily bread ;

Prov. 30 : 8. Feed me with food convenient for me.

Matt. 4 : 4. Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God.

John 6 : 35. And Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life : he that cometh to me shall never hunger ; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst.

“ O Heavenly Father, who knowest what we have need of, give us the necessities and comforts of this life with thy blessing: but above all, give us the bread that nourisheth to eternal life.

Acts 17:25. O God, who giveth to all, life, and breath, and all things, give us grace to impart to such as are in want, of what thou hast given more than our daily bread."

And forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us;

Ps. 130:3, 4. If thou, Lord, shouldest mark iniquities, O Lord, who shall stand? But there is forgiveness with thee that thou mayest be feared.

Matt. 6:14, 15. For if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you: but if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your heavenly Father forgive your trespasses.

"Make us truly sensible of thy goodness and mercy, and patience, towards us, that we may, from our hearts, forgive every one his brother, their trespasses.

"May my enemies ever have place in my prayers and in thy mercy."

And lead us not into temptation;

1 Cor. 10:13. But God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will, with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it.

"Support us, O heavenly Father, under all our saving trials, and grant that they may yield us the peaceable fruits of righteousness."

But deliver us from evil;

John 17:15. I pray not that thou shouldest take them out of the world, but that thou shouldest keep them from the evil.

"From all sin and wickedness, from our ghostly enemy, and from everlasting death, good Lord, deliver us.

"Deliver us from the evil of sin, and from the evil of punishment.

"Deliver us, O heavenly Father, from our evil and corrupt nature,—from the temptations and snares of an evil world, —and from falling again into the sins we have repented of.”

For thine is the kingdom, and the power and the glory, forever and ever; Amen.

1 Chron. 29 : 11, 12. Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty, for all that is in the heaven, and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all. Both riches and honor come of thee, and thou reignest over all; and in thine hand is power and might, and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give strength unto all.

“By thy almighty power, O King of heaven, for the glory of thy name, and for the love of a Father, grant us all these blessings, which thy Son hath taught us to pray for.

“Unto him, that is able to do for us abundantly more than we can ask or think, unto him be glory in the church, by Christ Jesus, throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.”

The Father of an infinite Majesty ;

His adorable, true and only Son.

Also the Holy Ghost, the Comforter.

Thou art the King of glory, O Christ.

Thou art the everlasting Son of the Father.

When thou tookest upon thee to deliver man, thou didst humble thyself to be born of a virgin.

When thou hadst overcome the sharpness of death, thou didst open standing, to the acknowledgment of the mystery of God, and of the Father, and of Christ, in whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge.

Ps. 145:5. I will speak of the glorious honor of thy majesty, and of thy wondrous works.

Ex. 3:14. I am that I am.

John 3:16. For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son.

Heb. 1:6. And let all the angels of God worship him.

John 14:26. But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things.

Ps. 24:8. Who is this King of glory? The Lord, strong and mighty, the Lord mighty in battle.

Rev. 17:14. These shall make war with the Lamb, and the Lamb shall overcome them, for he is the Lord of lords, and King of kings.

Heb. 1:8. To the Son he saith, thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever.

Rev. 1:17. And he [i.e. the one like unto the Son of man, v. 13.] laid his right upon me, saying, Fear not I am the first and the last.

Is. 7:14. A virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel.

Phil. 2:7. But made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men.

Rev. 3:21. To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also over- the kingdom of heaven to all believers.

Thou sittest at the right hand of God, in the glory of the Father.

We believe that thou shalt come to be our Judge.

[Part 3. an act of supplication.]

We therefore pray
thee, help thy servants, whom thou hast redeemed with thy precious blood.

Make them to be numbered with thy saints, in glory everlasting.

Father in his throne.

John 14:2. In my Father's house are many mansions;—I go to prepare a place for you.

Rev. 3:7. These things saith he, that is holy, he that is true, he that hath the key of David; he that openeth and no man shutteth;
and shutteth and no man openeth.

John 3:36. He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life.

Eph. 1:20. Which he wrought in Christ, when he raised him from the dead, and set him at his own right hand in the heavenly places.

John 17:5. And now, O Father, glorify thou me with thine own self, with the glory which I had with thee, before the world was.

Rom. 13:10. For we shall all stand at the judgment seat of Christ.

2 Tim. 4:1. I charge thee before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall judge the quick and the dead at his appearing and his kingdom.

Heb. 7:25. Wherefore he is able to save them to the uttermost, that come unto God by him.

1 Pet. 1:18, 19. Forasmuch as ye know, that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold,—but with the precious blood of Christ.

Col. 1:12. Giving thanks unto the Father, who hath made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light.

Col. 3:4. When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory.

O Lord save thy people and bless thine heritage.

Govern them and lift them up forever.

Day by day we magnify
thee.

And we worship thy name, ever world without end.

Vouchsafe, O Lord, to keep us this day without sin.

O Lord, have mercy
upon us, have mercy
upon us.

O Lord let thy mercy be upon us, as our trust is in thee.

O Lord in thee have I trusted, let me never be confounded.

giveth them light, and they shall reign for ever and ever.

Ps. 94 : 5. They break in pieces
thy people, O Lord, and afflict thine heritage.

Matt. 2 : 6. For out of thee shall come a governor, and shall rule my people Israel.

Ps. 3 : 3. But thou, O Lord, art a shield for me ; my glory, and the lifter up of my head.

Ps. 145 : 2. *Every day will I bless
thee.*

Rev. 15 : 6. Unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood, and hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father, to him be glory and dominion for ever. Amen.

2 Cor. 12 : 9. And he said, my grace is sufficient for thee ; for my strength is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly will I therefore glory in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest on me.

Matt. 20 : 30. Have mercy on us,
O Lord, thou Son of David.

2 Tim. 1 : 12. I know whom I *have trusted, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day.

¶ Or this Canticle.*

Benedicite, omnia opero Domini.

O all ye Works of the Lord, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Angels of the Lord, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Heavens, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him forever.

O ye Waters that are above the firmament, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O all ye Powers of the Lord, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Sun and Moon, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Stars of heaven, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Showers and Dew, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Winds of God, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Fire and Heat, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Winter and Summer, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Dews and Frosts, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Frost and Cold, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Ice and Snow, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Nights and Days, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Light and Darkness, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

* This canticle is a paraphrase of the 148th Psalm. It is contained in the Apocrypha, under the title of the Song of the Three Holy Children. It is said to have been very anciently used as a hymn in the Jewish church, and early adopted into the public service of the Christian.

O ye Lightnings and Clouds, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him forever.

O let the Earth bless the Lord ; yea let it praise him and magnify him forever.

O ye Mountains and Hills, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O all ye Green Things upon Earth, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him forever.

O ye Wells, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Seas and Floods, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Whales, and all that move in the Waters, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him forever.

O all ye Fowls of the Air, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O all ye Beasts and Cattle, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Children of Men, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O let Israel bless the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Priests of the Lord, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Servants of the Lord, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Spirits and Souls of the Righteous, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him for ever.

O ye Holy and Humble Men of Heart, bless ye the Lord ; praise him and magnify him forever.

¶ Then shall be read, in like manner, the Second Lesson, taken out of the New Testament, according to the table or calendar ; and after that the following Psalm.

Jubilate Deo.

Psalm 100.

O be joyful in the Lord, all ye lands ; serve the Lord with gladness, and come before his presence with a song.

Be ye sure that the Lord he is God, it is he that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are his people and the sheep of his pasture.

O go your way into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise; be thankful unto him, and speak good of his name.

For the Lord is gracious, his mercy is everlasting; and his truth endureth from generation to generation.

¶ Or this hymn.

Benedictus.

St. Luke 1 : 68—71.

Blessed be the Lord God of Israel; for he hath visited and redeemed his people;

And hath raised up a mighty salvation for us, in the house of his servant David;

As he spake by the mouth of his holy prophets, which have been since the world began;

That we should be saved from our enemies, and from the hand of all that hate us.

[Here follow the Psalms, &c. proper to the EVENING SERVICE.*]

¶ Then shall follow a Portion of the Psalms, as they are appointed or one of the Selections, as they are set forth by this church, with the Doxology as in the Morning Service. Then shall be read the First Lesson, according to the Table or Calendar; after which shall be said or sung the following Psalms, except when it is read in the ordinary course of the Psalms, on the nineteenth day of the month.

Cantate Domino.

Psalm 98.

O sing unto the Lord a new song; for he hath done marvellous things.

With his own right hand, and with this holy arm, hath he gotten himself the victory.

The Lord declared his salvation, his righteousness hath he openly showed in the sight of the heathen.

* What follows, as far as the Creed, belongs to the Evening Service, resumed from the Responses, following the Lord's prayer, p. 33.

He hath remembered his mercy and truth toward the house of Israel, and all the ends of the world have seen the salvation of our God.

Show yourselves joyful unto the Lord, all ye lands; sing, rejoice and give thanks.

Praise the Lord upon the harp; sing to the harp with a psalm of thanksgiving.

With trumpets also and shawms, O show yourselves joyful before the Lord the King.

Let the sea make a noise, and all that therein is, the round world and they that dwell therein.

Let the floods clap their hands, and let the hills be joyful together before the Lord; for he cometh to judge the earth.

With righteousness shall he judge the world, and the people with equity.

¶ Or this.

Bonum est confiteri.

Psalm 92 : 1—4.

It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, and to sing praises unto thy name, O Most Highest;

To tell of thy loving kindness early in the morning, and of thy truth in the night season;

Upon an instrument of ten strings and upon the lute; upon a loud instrument and upon the harp.

For thou, Lord, hast made me glad through thy works; and I will rejoice in giving praise for the operations of thy hands.

¶ Then a Lesson of the New Testament, as it is appointed; and, after that, shall be said or sung this Psalm, except on the twelfth day of the month.

Deus misereatur.

Psalm 67.

God be merciful unto us and bless us, and show us the light of his countenance, and be merciful unto us.

That thy way may be known upon earth, thy saving health among all nations.

Let the people praise thee, O God ; yea let all the people praise thee.

O let the nations rejoice and be glad ; for thou shalt judge the folk righteously, and govern the nations upon earth.

Let the people praise thee, O God ; yea let all the people praise thee.

Then shall the earth bring forth her increase ; and God, even our own God, shall give us his blessing.

God shall bless us ; and all the ends of the earth shall fear him.

¶ Or this.

Benedic, Anima mea.

Psalm 103 : 1—4, 20—22.

Praise the Lord, O my soul ; and all that is within me praise his holy name.

Praise the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits ;

Who forgiveth all thy sin, and healeth all thine infirmities ;

Who saveth thy life from destruction, and crowneth thee with mercy and loving kindness.

O praise the Lord, ye angels of his, ye that excel in strength ; ye that fulfil his commandment, and hearken unto the voice of his word.

O praise the Lord, all ye his hosts ; ye servants of his that do his pleasure.

O speak good of the Lord, all ye works of his, in all places of his dominion. Praise thou the Lord, O my soul.

[End of the Psalms, &c. of the Evening Service.*]

* Here the services again unite.

¶ Then shall be said the *Apostles' Creed by the Minister and the people, standing: And any churches may omit the words, He descended into hell, or use, instead of them, the words, He went into the place of departed spirits, which are considered as words of the same meaning in the Creed.

¶ A General Thanksgiving.

Almighty God, the Father of all mercies, we, thine unworthy servants,

Lord will maintain the cause of the afflicted and the right of the poor.

James 1:27. Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father, is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.

Ps. 146:9. The Lord relieveth the fatherless and widow, but the way of the wicked he turneth upside down.

2 Thess. 2:16, 17. Now our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God, even our Father—comfort your hearts.

by thy precious death
and burial;

by thy glorious resurrection,

and ascension,

and by the coming of the Holy Ghost;

1 Pet. 3 : 18. For Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God.

Luke 24 : 46. And when Jesus had cried with a loud voice, he said, Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit; and having said thus, he gave up the ghost.

1 Cor. 15 : 3. For I delivered unto you, first of all, that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins, according to the Scriptures, and was buried, &c.

1 Cor. 15 : 20. Now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept.

1 Pet. 1 : 21. Who by him do believe in God, that raised him up from the dead, and gave him glory, that your faith and hope might be in God.

Acts 1 : 9. And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up, and a cloud received him out of their sight.

Eph. 4 : 8. When he ascended up on high, he led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men.

John 15 : 26. But when the Comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, which proceedeth from the Father, he shall testify of me.

Acts 2 : 1—4. And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place. And suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house, where they were sitting. And there appeared unto them cloven tongues, like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them. And they were filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance.

Good Lord, deliver us.

In all time of our tribulation ;

John 16:10. In the world ye shall have tribulation, but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world.

in all time of our prosperity ;

Rom. 5:3. We glory in tribulations also, knowing that tribulation worketh patience.

Ps. 30:6. In my prosperity, I said, I shall never be moved.

in the hour of death,

Rom. 11:20. Be not high-minded, but fear.

Prov. 1:32. The prosperity of fools shall destroy them.

Ps. 23:4. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me, thy rod, and thy staff, they comfort me.

and in the day of judgment ;

2 Pet. 2:9. The Lord knoweth how to deliver the godly out of temptation, and to reserve the unjust unto the day of judgment to be punished.

Matt. 25:24. Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you, from the foundations of the world.

Good Lord, deliver us.

[3. The Intercessions.]

We sinners do beseech thee to hear us, O Lord

Dan. 9:17. Now therefore, O our God, hear the prayer of thy servant, and his supplications, and

God; and that it may please thee to rule and govern thy holy church universal in the right way;

cause thy face to shine upon thy sanctuary that is desolate, for the Lord's sake.

Matt. 28:20. Lo I am with you always, even unto the end of the world.

1 Cor. 12:18. But now God hath set the members, every one of them in the body, as it hath pleased him.

Eph. 5:27. That he might present it to himself a glorious church, not having spot or wrinkle or any such thing, but that it should be holy and without blemish.

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to bless and preserve all Christian rulers and magistrates, giving them grace to execute justice, and to maintain truth;

Rom. 13:3. For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil.

Rom. 13:4. He is the minister of God—a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil.

2 Chron. 19:6. And said unto the judges, Take heed what ye do, for ye judge not for man, but for the Lord.

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to illuminate all Bishops, Priests, and Deacons, with true knowledge and understanding of thy Word;

Mal. 2:7. For the priests lips should keep knowledge, and they should seek the law at his mouth.

Matt. 5:14. Ye are the light of the world.

Matt. 15:14. If the blind lead the blind, both shall fall into the ditch.

2 Tim. 2:7. The Lord give thee understanding in all things.

and that both by their preaching and living,

2 Tim. 4:2. Preach the word—be instant in season, out of season.

they may set it forth and show it accordingly ;

Jer. 23 : 28. He that hath my word, let him speak my word faithfully.

1 Tim. 4 : 12. Be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity.

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please
thee to bless and keep all thy people ;

Ps. 23 : 9. Save thy people, and bless thine inheritance ; feed them also and lift them up for ever.

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please
thee to give to all nations unity, peace, and concord ;

Is. 2 : 4. And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people, and they shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning-hooks ; nations shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please
thee to give us an heart
to love and fear thee,
and diligently to live
after thy commandments ;

Deut. 6 : 5. Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind.

1 John 5 : 3. This is the love of God, that we keep his commandments.

Prov. 16 : 6. By the fear of the Lord, men depart from evil.

Deut. 6 : 17. Ye shall diligently keep the commandments of the Lord your God.

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please
thee to give to all thy people increase of grace,

James 1 : 21. And receive with meekness the engrafted word, which is able to save your souls.

Heb. 4 : 2. But the word preached to hear meekly thy word,

did not profit them, not being mixed with faith in them that heard it.

1 Thess. 2:13. For this cause, also, we thank God without ceasing, because, when ye received the word of God which ye heard of us, ye received it not as the word of men, but as it is in truth, the word of God, which effectually worketh also in you that believe.

Is. 66:2. But to this man will I look, even to him that is of a contrite spirit, and that trembleth at my word.

and to receive it with pure affection,

Ps. 119:97. O how love I thy law; it is my meditation all the day.

2 Thess. 2:10. Because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved.

and to bring forth the fruits of the Spirit;

Gal. 5:22. But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance.

2 Pet. 1:5—8. And beside this giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to virtue, knowledge; and to knowledge, temperance; and to temperance, patience; and to patience, godliness; and to godliness, brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness, charity. For if these things be in you, and abound, they make you, that ye shall neither be barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ.

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to bring into the

2 Pet. 2:2. And many shall follow their [i. e. the false teachers'] pernicious ways, by reason of way of truth, all such as have erred and are deceived; whom, the way of truth shall be evil spoken of.

2 Tim. 2:25, 26. If God will peradventure give them repentance to the acknowledging of the truth, that they may recover themselves out of the snare of the devil.

Is. 44:20. A deceived heart hath turned him aside.

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to strengthen such as do stand,

Ps. 27:14. Wait on the Lord; be of good courage and he shall strengthen thy heart.

Eph. 3:16. That he would grant you, according to the riches of his glory, to be strengthened with all might by his Spirit in the inner man.

and to comfort and help the weak-hearted,

1 Thess. 5:14. Comfort the feeble minded, support the weak.

Is. 42:3. A bruised reed shall he not break.

and to raise up those who fall,

Ps. 145:14. The Lord upholdeth all that fall, and raiseth up all those that be bowed down.

and finally to beat down Satan under our feet;

Rom. 16:20. And the God of peace shall bruise Satan under your feet shortly.

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to succor, help, and comfort all who are in danger, necessity, and tribulation;

Ps. 60:11. Give us help from trouble, for vain is the help of man.

James 2:15. If a brother or sister be naked, and destitute of daily food, and one of you say unto them, depart in peace, be ye warmed and filled; notwithstanding ye give them not those things, which are needful for the body; what doth it profit?

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to preserve all who travel by land or by water,

Ezra 8 : 11. And the hand of our God was upon us, and he delivered us from the hand of the enemy, and of such as lay in wait by the way.

Ps. 107 : 29. He maketh the storm a calm, so that the waves thereof are still.

all women in the perils of childbirth, all sick persons, and young children,

James 5 : 15. And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up.

and to show thy pity upon all prisoners and captives ;

Heb. 13 : 3. Remember them that are in bonds, as bound with them ; and them that suffer adversity, as being yourselves also in the body.

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to defend and provide for the fatherless children and widows, and all who are desolate and oppressed ;

Ps. 146 : 9. The Lord preserveth the stranger ; he relieveth the fatherless and widow.

Ps. 68 : 5. A Father of the fatherless, and a Judge of the widows, is God in his holy habitation.

James 1 : 27. Pure religion, and undefiled, before God and the Father, is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.

Ps. 146 : 7. Which executeth judgment for the oppressed.

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to have mercy upon all men ;

1 Tim. 2 : 1, 3, 4. I exhort therefore that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions and giving of thanks, be made for all men ;—for this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour, who will have all men to repent and to come to the knowledge of the truth.

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to forgive our enemies, persecutors, and slanderers, and to turn their hearts;

Matt. 5:44. But I say unto you, love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them that despitefully use you and persecute you.

Luke 23:34. Father forgive them, for they know not what they do.

Acts 7:66. Lord, lay not this sin to their charge.

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to give and preserve to our use the kindly fruits of the earth, so that in due time we may enjoy them;

Luke 11:3. Give us day by day our daily bread.

Ps. 34:10. The young lions do lack and suffer hunger, but they that wait on the Lord shall not want any good thing.

Acts 14:17. And gave us rain from heaven, and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness.

We beseech thee to hear us, good Lord.

That it may please thee to give us true repentance, to forgive us all our sins, negligences, and ignorances,*

¶ A general Thanksgiving.

Almighty God, Father of all mercies, we thine unworthy servants, do give thee most humble and hearty thanks for all thy goodness and loving-kindness to us, and to all men. We bless thee for our creation, preservation, and all the blessings of this life ; but, above all, for thine inestimable love in the redemption of the world by our Lord Jesus Christ ; for the means of grace, and for the hope of glory. And we beseech thee, give us that due sense of all thy mercies, that our hearts may be unfeignedly thankful, and that we may show forth thy praise, not only with our lips, but in our lives ; by giving up ourselves to thy service, and by walking before thee in holiness and righteousness all our days, through Jesus Christ our Lord; to whom, with thee, and the Holy Ghost, be all honor and glory, world without end. Amen.

¶ A Prayer of St. Chrysostom.

Almighty God, who hast given us grace at this time with one accord, to make our common supplications unto thee, and dost promise, that when two or three are gathered together in thy name, thou wilt grant their requests; fulfil, now, O Lord, the desires and petitions of thy servants, as may be most expedient for them; granting us, in this world, knowledge of thy truth, and in the world to come, life everlasting. Amen.

2 Cor. 13: 14.

The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the fellowship of the Holy Ghost, be with us all evermore. Amen.

Here endeth the Litany.

NOTE A.—Page 9.

On the Sentences, and Preparation for Worship.

THE introductory sentences are to be read, by the minister, as admonitions to those, who have assembled for worship, of the dispositions, which are required of all, who would hope for acceptance before God. Such a commencement of divine service is peculiarly proper, for we should not rush without consideration, into the presence of him “to whom all hearts are open, all desires known, and from whom no secrets are hid,” and who “looks upon the heart,” demanding not outward but inward homage,—nor should we come without due preparation from the cares and distractions of the world, to a service, for which we are all naturally unfit, by our carnal affections, our love of worldly things and our proud self-confidence. Without due preparation, we can expect little benefit. It is true, we may be suddenly arrested by the grace of God, when we are not seeking for him, and he who comes “to scoff, may remain to pray.” But he undoubtedly, and he only has reason to expect God’s blessing, who comes, with an earnest desire of it, and due preparation for his service. “Come,” says the Homily on the time and place of prayer, “come with an heart sifted and cleansed from worldly and carnal affections and desires; shake off all vain thoughts, which may hinder thee from God's true service. The bird, when she will fly, shaketh her wings; shake and prepare thyself to fly higher than all the birds in the air, that after thy duty duly done in this earthly temple and church, thou mayest fly up, and be received into the glorious temple of God in heaven."

The three first sentences are not in the English prayer book, but were added, when the Liturgy was revised for the use of the American Church. They are very suitable as preparatory to worship, but are not entirely "congruous," to use the words of Bishop Brownell, "with the order of our service." We commence our service with confession, and all the sentences in the English prayer book are either exhortations and encouragements to penitence and confession, or examples of them. They thus exactly harmonize with that part of God's service, which the compilers of the Liturgy rightly judged most suitable for the commencement of public worship, and point out also to the worshipper the most necessary preparation for it. That which qualifies us for God's blessing, prepares us also for his service, and to what is the promise made but to penitence and confession.

It is a pious practice, which ought to be maintained, for each individual to seek God's blessing by private prayer, when he enters the church. To promote this practice, the sentences are here, with more or less alteration, turned into prayers for this use. As the sentences point out the proper preparation for worship, so they furnish us with the proper subjects for such prayers, and the prayers themselves, while they serve the purpose for which they were especially prepared, may also serve in some measure as comments upon the sentences.

It cannot be considered as impertinent, to add to these remarks on preparation for divine service, that the unfeigned humility, which, as implied in confession, has been spoken of, as above all others, the proper feeling, will lead us to put away all ostentation and self-display in God's house. Simplicity both of dress and demeanor is alone consistent with that self-abasement, to which our service leads us at its very commencement, and sets forth as the foundation of acceptable worship. God alone should be exalted in his house.

NOTE B.—Page 23.

On the Absolution.

Some persons confound this Declaration of Absolution, with the Absolution of the Romish church. But a little attention to it will show their error. In the first sentence, the priest sets forth his commission—to do what? To pardon? No; but to declare remission of sins to the penitent. In the next sentence, he proceeds to execute his commission. And how does he do it? By simply declaring that "He," i. e. God, "pardoneth and absolveth"—whom?—"all those who do truly repent and unfeignedly believe his holy gospel." Does he pretend to decide upon their repentance and faith? Not at all. The words "truly," and "unfeignedly," are designed to turn the thoughts of the worshippers to that great Being, who searches the hearts, as the one, with whom, in this matter, they have to do.—The priest proceeds, "Wherefore let us beseech him," &c. not setting himself up as the pardoner, but uniting himself with the penitents, who seek absolution from God.

Nothing can come more properly after confession, than the declaration of God's pardoning mercy. And nothing can be more proper than this form. The minister exhibits his authority, and declares his message, and then places himself under its benefits, modestly acknowledging "the earthen vessel," (2 Cor. 4 : 7.) through which the message is conveyed.

NOTE C.—Page 47.

On the Descent to Hell, and the Intermediate State.

The place of departed spirits, as in the Rubric. Christ, the God-man, ascended to heaven after his resurrection, and until the resurrection at the last day, the souls of the faithful departed will not be admitted to the full and final reward of the blessed in heaven. Between their death and resurrection, their souls are in paradise—Abraham's bosom—the place of departed spirits—happy—resting from their labors—their works following them, but “waiting for the adoption, to wit, the redemption of the body,” before they can be prepared to ascend and be, in the most perfect and glorious sense, “ever with the Lord.” Not till the resurrection cometh the judgment, and not till the judgment are men sent to the places of their everlasting abode. This appears to be the simple doctrine of the Scriptures.

Luke 14:4. Thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the just.

1 Cor. 15:52—54. The dead shall be raised incorruptible. For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. Then shall be brought to pass the saying, Death is swallowed up in victory.

1 Thess. 4:16, 17. The dead in Christ shall rise first. Then we which are alive, and remain, shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air, and so shall we ever be with the Lord.

Col. 3:4. When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory.

Dan. 12:2. Many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth, shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt.

2 Pet. 2:9. The Lord knoweth how to deliver the godly out of temptation, and to reserve the unjust unto the day of judgment to be punished.

In these passages the time of final reward, both of the righteous and the wicked, is placed at the resurrection.

The doctrine of an intermediate state, seems to result necessarily from that of the resurrection of the body. If the body is to be raised, and the soul reunited to it, that the man may, in his entire nature, receive the reward of his works—that the Christian, in his glorified body, may be more perfectly fitted to be with and like his Lord, who has gone before him into heaven, with a similar glorified body—and that the very nature, over which Satan had triumphed, and which death had made its own, being raised to heaven in immortal beauty, should for ever grace the victory of the Messiah; and, on the other hand, that those who had sinned in, by, and for, the body, should also in the body suffer the vengeance of God;—then must the state of souls between death and the resurrection be other than it will be after that glorious event.—What the condition of souls in this intermediate state may be, we know not, save that those of the righteous are happy, and those of the wicked “in torment.” “Blessed are the dead, that die in the Lord,” says St. John, “from henceforth,” and our blessed Saviour told the penitent thief that he should be with him that day, in paradise.—The notion then, that souls, in the intermediate state, are insensible, is contrary to Scripture.

Where souls, in this state, may be, it is unnecessary to inquire. What Scripture teaches, and the creed intends, is that there is such an intermediate state, and that the place of departed and separate spirits is not the same as that, which they shall have after their reunion with their risen bodies, and they shall have received the assignment of their eternal homes, at the day of judgment. The common notion, especially of those Christians, among whom these ancient symbols of the faith have fallen into disuse, has abolished all this, and sends the souls of the departed to their full reward or punishment, immediately after death, and at the judgment recalls them from heaven and from hell, to receive a sentence, of which they have already long been in possession.

I suppose that the great objection to this doctrine, springs from the feelings of those, who have lost friends, and delight in believing, that they are in the very heaven of God, burning like seraphs before his throne. But, possibly, for it is all conjecture, in this intermediate state, the departed may retain more sympathy with the present world, although so unlike what they were here, than they can have in their glorified nature, and in the perfect presence of God, for, as our Saviour says, in reply to a question, which involved the continuance of our present relations to each other; "in the resurrection they neither marry, nor are given in marriage, but are as the angels of God in heaven."—This state is one of expectation, and is it not, therefore, one of prayer? Witness the prayer of souls under the altar, (Rev. 6 : 10.)—and that surviving friends are remembered, witness the anxieties of Dives, though in torment.

After the death of Christ, doubtless his human soul went to the place of departed human spirits, and was with the souls of the righteous departed, preaching to them as St. Peter says, till his resurrection. The passage, which I have quoted against this article of the creed (Acts 2 : 27.) was explained by the early Christians, upon this ground. And they considered the doctrine expressly taught by St. Peter (1 Pet. 3 : 19.) "By which also he went and preached unto the spirits in prison." "In the earliest times, (says Knapp, Theology, II. 199.) this passage was universally considered as denoting the continuance of Christ in Hades, and this meaning is undoubtedly the most natural, and best suited to the words, the context, and all the ideas of antiquity. But as this meaning does not accord with modern ideas, various other explanations have been attempted," &c. &c.

“Their souls,” says Irenæus, Bp. of Lyons, (Ob. A. D. 202.) speaking of the order of the glorification and resurrection of true Christians, “shall go to an invisible place appointed by God, where they shall tarry till the resurrection, in continual expectation of it. After which, receiving their bodies, and rising perfectly, i. e. corporally, they shall come to the presence of God.” Sir P. King’s Hist. Ap. Creed. p. 205. So Justin Martyr (Ob. A. D. 163.) says, “All souls do not die, but those of the godly remain in a better place, and those of the ungodly in a worse, expecting the day of judgment.” (ib)

Hell, in the ancient English dialect, was used, in the larger sense, for the general receptacle of all souls whatever, being derived from the old Saxon word Hil, to hide, or the participle Helled, hidden. It was equivalent, therefore, to the Greek Hades. Its present limited signification has tended probably to embarrass this subject, in the mind of the English reader.

This article of the creed was insisted on by the ancients, because “it afforded a weighty argument against the followers of Apollinarius, who denied the existence of a human soul in Christ.” It has received a great variety of interpretations, as may be seen in bishop Pearson. That which I have given, following the Rubric, appears to me to give the simple sense of Holy Scripture, and of the ancient church, free from the additions which, as is wont, began very early to cluster about a point so mysterious.—For a brief but distinct view of the subject, see Knapp’s Theology, above referred to, and for a beautiful speculation on “the state of souls,” see Saturday Evening, Chap. 24.

On Prayer for the Clergy.

If Christians wish to “be refreshed” by their ministers, (Rom. 15 : 32.)—or to have “that which is lacking in their faith” perfect, (1 Thess. 3: 10.)—or to see the word of the Lord prospering in the conversion of souls, (2 Thess. 3: 1.)—let them pray, that they may have large measures of the “Spirit of grace.” For as saith the Homily for Whitsunday, “Which thing [i. e. the visible descent of the Holy Ghost, on the day of pentecost,] was undoubtedly to teach the apostles and all other men, that it is He, which giveth utterance and eloquence in preaching the gospel; that it is He, which openeth the mouth to declare the mighty works of God; that it is He, which engendereth a burning zeal towards God’s word, and giveth all men a tongue, yea, a fiery tongue, so that they may boldly and cheerfully profess the truth in the face of the whole world.” “After this sort,” says the Homily on Prayer, part 3, “did the congregation continually pray for Peter, at Jerusalem, and for Paul, among the Gentiles, to the great increase and furtherance of Christ’s Gospel. And if we, following their good example herein, will study to do the like, doubtless it cannot be expressed, how greatly we shall both help ourselves, and also please God.”

On the Personality and Worship of the Holy Ghost.

That the Holy Ghost is something divine, (τι θεϊον) cannot be doubted. The most important question to be discussed, relates therefore to his personality. If a person, he is God. Let us see how the language of Scripture bears upon this point.

The Holy Ghost is called (John 14: 16, 26; and 15: 26, &c.) the Comforter, or as some render it, Helper, not Help.—He is the author of spiritual gifts, (1 Cor. 12: 4—11,) and not therefore to be confounded with the gifts.—He is said to hear, to speak, to receive, &c. all which are the acts of a person, (John 16: 13, &c.)—He appears as a personal agent, in sending Paul and Barnabas on a mission through Cyprus, Pamphylia, &c. (Acts 13 : 2, 4.)—Again, he appears as a personal agent, when he is represented (Acts 20 : 28.) as having made the elders of the church at Ephesus, overseers of the flock. And so in many other places.

In the formula of Baptism, (Matt. 28 : 19.) he is mentioned in distinction from the Father and the Son. So also, in the apostolic benediction, (2 Cor. 13 : 14.)—In none of these passages does he appear as the personification of some attribute of the Deity, or merely as a divine influence, but always as a personal agent.

Is he to be worshipped, as he is in this supplication? If God, certainly. Have we any examples of the worship of the Holy Ghost in the New Testament? Paul says, (Rom. 9 : 1.) “my conscience bearing me witness in the Holy Ghost.” “This must be considered as an act of divine worship, (says Knapp, Theol. II. 283.) since both Mosaic and Christian rules forbid swearing by any but the supreme God, Matt. 5 : 33—36. To swear by God, and to honor or worship him, were synonymous terms in the Old Testament.” See Jer. 5 : 7; Deut. 6 : 13; Josh. 23 : 7; Isa. 65 : 16.—Again, the apostolic benediction (2 Cor. 13 : 14.) is the invocation of a blessing.

Is he to be worshipped separately, as here? Why not, if he has a distinct agency in the work of man’s redemption? And indeed is not the distinct worship of the Holy Ghost, as in this passage, important in its bearing upon our views and feelings in regard to his peculiar and important office?

On the Importance of a Right Belief.

The petition, to be delivered “from false doctrine and heresy,” is important, for our opinions are the promises of our actions, and only a right faith is likely to be followed by a right practice. It is quite absurd to represent the doctrines of religion as matters of minor consequence, upon the ground of the supreme importance of a pious life. Who lives piously, but because he believes piously? Why did God reveal the truth to us, why did Christ "come to bear witness" to it, and why is the Holy Ghost sent to "lead men into all truth," if a right belief is not of fundamental importance? Corrupt public opinion, and you corrupt public morals. Corrupt the truth of the gospel, and it loses in proportion its healing energy. "The truth shall make you free." What can be of more practical importance to the Christian, e. g. than to know the grounds of acceptance with God? And who knows not how completely at variance are the notions of those, "who call themselves Christians," upon this point, and that in consequence of their different doctrinal views concerning the nature and office of Christ.

NOTE G.—Page 70.

On the Obsecrations.

The striking appeals to God, which commence with this passage, "by the mystery of thy holy incarnation," &c. are of the form called Obsecration, by the older writers; but apt and beautiful as they are, they have not escaped misapprehension and censure. A brief consideration of their nature and appropriateness may not be out of place.

The 44th Psalm is a prayer composed for the church in a season of calamity. How does it commence? With an appeal to past instances of God's goodness, in view of which the church rouses herself to confidence in him, and in this confidence urges her prayer for deliverance. "Arise for our help, and redeem us for thy mercies' sake."

So again in the 74th Psalm. The prophet complains of the desolations of the sanctuary, and appeals to God's past mercies. v. 2, "Remember thy congregation, which thou hast purchased of old." And verses 12—15, "Thou didst divide the sea by thy strength," &c. And he founds his petitions upon the appeal, v. 22, "Arise, O God, plead thine own cause," &c.

The same turn of pious thought occurs in the 85th Psalm.

Why may not the Christian make the more forcible appeal to the infinite mercies of God as shown, at every step in the great work of redemption, for the encouragement of his faith under trials and afflictions? Nay, can he, without guilt, neglect to fortify his soul, with such proofs of the transcendent mercy of God as have been exhibited to him in the incarnation, the agony and bloody sweat, the cross and passion, the death, resurrection, and ascension of his eternal Son? The spontaneous action of a right mind would lead directly to this method. Suppose a godly man, upon his knees, in distress, tempted to doubt God's mercy, and struggling with unbelief. He can utter nothing, and hardly send up a desire to God, till he remembers the Son of God, his agony, and his death, endured for all—for him. The spell is burst, and he exclaims, "I must believe thee, I do believe thee, Almighty God; though thou slay me, I will trust and hope in thee."

When we call to mind, as in these obsecrations, the appearance of God in mortal flesh, and the unmeasured sufferings of his human nature in the garden, and upon the cross, and even those apparently minor circumstances, his baptism and circumcision, which were nevertheless necessary to his fulfilling all righteousness, as one "made under the law," that he might be a perfect Saviour—and remember all this as done for us, how can we fail to find that in our hearts, which St. Paul so well expresses, (Rom. 8:32.) "He that spared not his own Son, but delivered him up for us all, how shall he not with him also freely give us all things?" And when we call to mind the glorious resurrection and ascension of Christ, and the fulfilment of his promise in the coming of the Holy Ghost, all evincing that his sufferings had been accepted by the Father, and that he is now enthroned in the plenitude of his mediatorial power and glory;—how can we fail to feel an increased confidence in drawing nigh to God? As we go on naming, in our appeals to God, one after another, these demonstrations of Christ's compassion, and God's love in Christ, our faith should rise, at every step, until we can boldly enter into the Holiest, by the new and living way, which Christ has consecrated for us, through his flesh, and draw near to the very throne, with a true heart, and in the full assurance of faith.

NOTE H.—Page 80.

On the Worship of Christ.

Here,—where our supplications are addressed so explicitly to Christ, and we follow up our requests with repeated and urgent petitions, addressed to him, in his different capacities, as the Son of God,—as the Lamb of God, who was slain for us,—as the Christ, the Anointed, the Messiah, consecrated to be our High Priest and King,—it is proper to consider a little more fully the subject of worshipping him. The passages quoted in the text, will go far to show the propriety of our practice in this respect, but it will appear clearer, when we consider carefully the examples in the New Testament, of prayer addressed to Christ.

In Acts 7:59, we have a palpable instance. "Lord Jesus," said the dying Stephen, "receive my spirit."

We find another in Paul's prayer for the removal of the "thorn in the flesh," 2 Cor. 12:8. "I sought the Lord thrice, that it might be removed from me." Whom did he mean by the Lord? The immediate context determines, v. 9, "And he [the Lord] said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee, for my strength is made perfect in weakness." Most gladly then, exclaimed the apostle, do I submit, nay, "I will rather glory in my infirmities." Why? "that the power of Christ may rest upon me." It was Christ, then, whose strength was to be made perfect in his weakness, and Christ to whom he thrice prayed.

It appears to me probable, that when "the Lord" is addressed in many other passages, the Lord Jesus Christ is intended, although the context does not always, as in the instances above, afford decisive proof. In Acts 1:24, the context makes this probable. "And they prayed and said, Thou, Lord, which knowest the hearts of all men, show whether of these two thou hast chosen." Peter, in making the proposal for the choice of an apostle, had just spoken of Jesus, as "the Lord Jesus." Add to this, that "the Lord" is the common appellation of Christ,—that the Lord Jesus appointed the other apostles,—that he appeared miraculously to commission Paul, (Acts 9:5.) and the fact, shown by the above examples, that Christ was prayed to under the title, Lord, and the probability becomes great, that he is the "Lord" addressed in the prayer under consideration. The addition, "who knowest the hearts of all men," agrees with what is said of Christ, John 2:25. "He knew what was in man," and with what he says of himself, Rev. 2:23, "I am he which searcheth the reins and the hearts."

Prayer to Christ is spoken of in 1 John 5:14, 15. "These things," says John, v. 13, "have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God. And this is the confidence that we have in him, That if we ask any thing according to his will, he heareth us ; and if we know that he hear us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have the petitions that we desired of him." Here the person spoken of, the Son of God, is the same through the whole passage.

The passages which supplicate "the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ," are all prayers to him. Rom. 1:7.—1 Cor. 16:23.—2 Cor. 13:14.—Gal. 6:18.—Eph. 6:23.—Phil. 4:23.—1 Thess. 5:28.—2 Thess. 3:18.—2 Tim. 4:22.—Philem. 25.—Rev. 22:21. In the first Epistle to the Thessalonians, (3:11—13.) we have a remarkable example of this kind of prayer to Christ. "Now God himself and our Father, and our Lord Jesus Christ direct our way unto you. And the Lord [i. e. the Lord, whom he had just named] make you to increase and abound in love one toward another, and toward all men, even as we do toward you; to the end he may stablish your hearts unblamable in holiness before God, even our Father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, with all his saints."

From these passages, we may learn that praying to the Son of God is one way, in which we are to "honor him even as we honor the Father." John 5:23.—We may see that, with the apostles, the declaration of Christ "that all power was given to him in heaven and in earth," was not a dead letter; and that in holding him to be "head over all things, to the church," (Eph. 1:22.) they believed, that, as members of it, they might look to him for all their wants.

In our supplications to Christ, what do we more than follow the examples of the apostles, recorded in Holy Scripture, and sanctioned by its doctrines, and transmitted to us from their days, also through the ancient Liturgies? And if Christ is "head over all things, to the church," is there not a peculiar aptness in such supplications?
